THE DISTRICT SCHOOL.—We yesterday paid a visit to the district school, now under the charge of Mr. E. R. Wilmarth and lady. For the credit of the city we would like to forbear giving our opinion of the accommodations of that institution, but to do so seems a professional duty. In two little, ill-ventilated rooms we found 90 scholars, male and female, crowded together like poultry on the road to market. The half-suffocated pupils were literally wedged together on the main seats, and some even put up to roost on narrow platforms projecting from the walls. It is simply inhumanity to put over 25 or 30 scholars in those two little pens; and it is disgraceful to Pioche, with her boasted population of 5,000, that she supports but one public school, and that it is a regular juvenile black-hole. Where are the school revenues? and where the school officers? If there can't be an improvement, and at once, we would suggest that parents arrange among themselves to send their children to school alternate weeks.

MISS DOUGRAY'S BALL.—We hope our citizens will bear in mind that Miss Kate Douggray's Washington Birthday ball will come off next Friday evening—it being impracticable to have it on the 22d. Miss Douggray is an estimable lady, has never, we are told, failed to respond to any charitable call since her residence among us, and we hope to see her well patronized on this occasion. Some of our best and most popular citizens will act as masters of ceremony. The services of the talented musician, Professor Nagle, and of other first-class artists, have been secured.

THE WEATHER AT BULLIONVILLE.—Day before yesterday—and yesterday, too, we presume—heavy rains prevailed in Bullionville and vicinity. When we have snow fall here they usually have rainfall down there. Though only 12 miles apart, there is a marked difference in the climate of the two places, owing to the difference in the altitude. We may have vegetables of this year's production from Bullionville before the last snow of winter melts from the elevations around us.

SAN FRANCISCO DISTRICT is attracting increased attention. A gentleman told us yesterday, just from there, that he believed it would give employment to a thousand men within a year. With the Palisade, Eureka and Pioche Railroad completed our merchants could compete with Salt Lake in furnishing supplies to that point.

CORRECTION.—The man who is sick at Glisson's is named Duffey, and not O'Here, as stated in yesterday's issue; and further, he was examined by the County Physician, and pronounced too low to be removed to the County Hospital.

THE SNOW STORMS CONTINUE.—Yesterday afternoon it again commenced snowing, and the white flakes were showered down for three or four hours without intermission. The snow is now a foot deep on the average.

IT IS SAID THAT a good many hogs have lately been killed by jalap. The Grand Jury didn't recommend abating the nuisance in that manner. Hogs eat strychnine with impunity, but jalap kills them like a shot.

H. N. MAGUIRE, of the Record, has been admitted to practice law by the Supreme Court of Montana—examination and application having been made before he started for Pioche.

TO ARRIVE TO-DAY.—The following passengers left Hamilton yesterday and will arrive to-day: H. I. Thornton, Wm. Anthony, W. H. Charlton, C. Hensel, Mr. Ordway and Mr. Steel.

ALMOST A FIRE.—An alarm of fire on upper Main street precipitated a great excitement. It was caused by a stove burning out in the bakery adjoining the Star restaurant.

DIED IN THE HOSPITAL.—Dominic Snelro, aged 38, a native of Switzerland, died in the County Hospital, night before last, of pneumonia.

PNEUMONIA.

EDITOR RECORD: It has often been asked why pneumonia is so frequent and so fatal in Pioche, and there has been no satisfactory explanation given. My theory is that Pioche is situated, as it were, on the dividing line between two entirely different climates. At Pioche the mountains towards the south commence breaking away into foot-hills and soon into sandy plains towards the Colorado, where, even in the coldest season of winter the climate is more like summer than winter. When we have several days of southerly winds coming from over those warm sandy plains the weather becomes balmy and spring-like, the doors of our houses are thrown open, fires are not lighted, and the atmosphere is so warm and agreeable that our systems become in a manner relaxed, and during these warm spells there is no climate more enjoyable than ours. But in a single night the wind shifts to the north, and a complete change takes place in our climatic economy, and the bitter north wind, chilled by contact with a thousand snow-covered mountains, comes from its ice-chilled confines of the north only to be more thoroughly chilled and bitter by the time it reaches us. In Dana's "Two Years Before the Mast" he relates that in the far south seas an iceberg could be felt sensibly two days before it is sighted; hence it does not seem unreasonable that a single mountain covered by snow would affect the atmosphere for a considerable distance. The change in the atmosphere from one of comparative warmth to the bitter cold sometimes experienced here is a great promoter of pleural and lung affections, which too often fasten with fatal effect on the victim before he is aware of any danger.

THEATER.—Notwithstanding the continuous snowfall of yesterday evening, there was a crowded house, every seat in the dress circle being filled, the occupants mostly arriving in carriages—which is an epoch in the dramatic history of Pioche. Mrs. Bates again rendered her splendid conception of the dual role of Isabel Carlyle and Madam Vine, and in the latter caused pocket handkerchiefs to be in great demand among the fairer portion of the audience. Mr. F. M. Bates played Carlyle in an easy and gentlemanly style, and was very impressive in the latter scenes of the play. As Levison Mr. Dunsay did well, and Mr. Dunne deserves credit for his Earl of Mount Severn. Mr. Maguire was excellent in relating the story of Halliwell's murder; and "last, but not least," the ladies gave splendid support—Miss Marion playing Barbara in a style that promises much for her future. To-night the beautiful play of Ingomar will be performed. Mr. Bates as Ingomar and Mrs. Bates in her charming character of Parthenia. Reserve your seats early.

FINE BEEF CATTLE.—Fine beef cattle are coming into town constantly from grazing fields on the eastern slope of the Wasatch mountains, fifteen miles east of Kanarra. They reach our markets in as good beefing condition as stall-fed animals of the East. The grass in the locality referred to is said to be nutritious and abundant the year around.

LETTER ON PNEUMONIA.—The letter in this issue on pneumonia, its unusual prevalence and fatality here, will be found interesting. We should like to hear from whoever may have additional light to throw on the subject. The author certainly writes as if he understood his subject thoroughly, giving us sound ideas and valuable suggestions.

A BEAUTIFULLY PRINTED ALMANAC.—We have received, for gratuitous distribution, from Crane & Hawes, general agents on the Pacific coast of the New York Life Insurance Company, a limited number of beautifully printed and handsomely illustrated almanacs for 1873. Drop in and get a copy—as long as they last.

HARD TIMES WITH THE DEMI-MOON.—Attachments were yesterday laid on three different houses of ill-fame—one from the District and two from the Justice's Court. We don't know who the "keepers" of these houses of prostitution are, but they have been duly appointed by the proper authorities.

ILL.—Guy Thorpe, Cashier in Wells, Fargo & Co's banking department, has been confined to his room by sickness since Saturday last. We are pleased to state, however, that he was better last night, and unless some unexpected change takes place, he will be all right again in a few days.

MAJOR PECK, an extensive operator in live stock, brought in, last week, seventy head of steers and two hundred head of sheep, for which he found a ready sale at our meat markets. He has returned to Utah to buy more stock from the Mormon co-operative herds.

TROUT FROM PAROWAN.—A wagon load of fine trout came into town yesterday from Lake Parowan, about a hundred and sixty miles a little north of east from here, in the Wasatch range. Some of them weigh ten pounds. They sold at reasonable figures.

GOODS RECEIVED.—Jacobs & Sultan, yesterday, received from Toano, a large amount of merchandise, embracing nearly all the staples. They were only three weeks on the road, and arrived in good condition. The freighters report heavy roads.

UNUSUAL SCENE HERE.—In the last two days we have noticed sled-loads of wood passing through our streets. We believe this is the first sleiding in the history of the camp.

DAMAGED MERCHANDISE.—One of our merchants has just received a quantity of damaged goods. They had been long delayed.

WE NOTICED two or three drunken men lying out in the storm last night—deliberately courting death.

PETITIONS are circulating in this city for the retaining of Mr. Barnes as Postmaster.

"COASTING" is again rife among the boys.

NEW STAGE LINE.—A new stage line has been organized to run between Pioche and Highland. The first trip was made yesterday. It is proposed to make half-daily trips.

AN individual direct from Missouri informs us that pneumonia is very prevalent in that State, and that fatal terminations are frequent.

MRS. REBECCA PYLE, of this place, gives notice in our advertising columns to-day that she has petitioned for the privileges of a sole trader.

HAMILTON MAIL arrived last night in good season. Owing to the inclemency of the weather, no one expected it.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY GOLDTHWAITE has been so ill for some days as to be confined to his room. He is improving.

ONE practitioner is now attending twelve cases of pneumonia in town.
